

From product idea to shipment arrival

Use this guide to organize information and questions before starting an import request. Procedures, costs, and requirements vary by product, supplier, shipping method, and relevant authorities.

1

Describe the product

State its use, materials, dimensions, colors, performance, and essential specifications.

2

Estimate quantity

Share an initial and target quantity, and say whether you need a sample.

3

Add a reference

Provide photos, a drawing, or a similar product link and describe any changes.

4

Specify packaging

Mention packaging, labels, and branding if they are required.

A short checklist before requesting a quote

Product and specifications | Quantity | Photos or drawing | Delivery city | Services needed

Start with a clear description of what you want to buy. Clear specifications make it easier to request and compare offers.

1

Compare supplier offers

Compare specifications, minimum order quantity, preparation time, payment terms, and packaging.

2

Check the details

Request company and factory details and product information. Ask about any inconsistencies.

3

Approve a sample

Review the sample against written specifications and record revisions and approval.

4

Agree on inspection

Set inspection points, timing, and how results will be shared before production or shipment.

Before confirming a larger quantity, agree with the supplier on what will be made and how you will review samples and quality.

1

Collect shipment details

Gather package count, dimensions, weight, cargo type, pickup point, and delivery destination.

2

Compare transport options

Compare available options by shipment size, estimated timing, and cargo handling.

3

Check documents

Request document lists from the supplier and carrier.
Check product requirements with the relevant authority or a customs broker.

4

Review total costs

Ask what the quote includes and what may be added for transport, handling, clearance, or statutory charges.

This is a general planning guide, not regulatory or customs advice. Check current requirements for your product and shipment with relevant authorities before purchase or shipping.
